“ Aunt Chris always treated my siblings and me as her own children while she maintained a very close relationship with my parents.

I have fond memories of Aunt Chris always extending an invitation to me to join her, Uncle Carl, and son, Carlton for a meal at their home. Aunt Chris lovingly reassured me that I always had a place at their dinner table.

When I was a young girl I recall my parents hosting their Annual New Year's Eve Party down in our basement on Red Bud Avenue. Carlton, my sister, Chelley, and I would sit in the living room and watch Guy Lombardo and Dick Clark on television. Our duty would be to instruct the guests to enter the basement in the backyard. Throughout the evening we would slip in the basement to grab a bite to eat. While loading our plates with goodies, we watched Aunt Chris and Uncle Carl dance the night away. Watching the two dance together to their favorite tune "It's Your Thing" by The Isley Brothers was very entertaining. Everyone could see the love they had for each other.

When I became an adult Aunt Chris spoke the Word of God to me every chance she got. She invited me to St. Louis Christian Center for bible study and women's fellowship services. Because of her obedience to God, I was led to a church home where I began to receive teachings on the Word of God.

I will deeply miss this wonderful and magnificent woman of God. I take comfort to know that Aunt Chris is resting in the arms of God. She has been reunited with loved ones that have gone before her such as her beloved husband, Uncle Carl; my parents, James and Rose Troupe; and my brother, Pierre "Pete" Troupe.

Rest in Heaven Aunt Chris.

*Love,
Kim Troupe.*
