“ When i first met Justin again being I knew him from years before it was at a time when I was going through the loss of my Father Robert Lee Blackwell back in 2016. Collectively I wasn't speaking much being i was trying to process and Justin asked me dude whats been going on and whats wrong and I expressed my loss to him being i had regrets of not being there for a time of his need and Justin smiled and said "Dude everyone makes mistakes, and im sure hes proud of your accomplishments. Honor and remember him and progress no matter what". That alone made me respect him a bit being a lot of people were just dumping it off like you'll get over it.

Over the course of time we built a solid friendship to where we educated each other of different mindsets and perspectives of life to where i learned a lot from him in terms of to be patient, and to be focused and most important be dedicated no matter what you put your effort into. Granted Justin wasn't what you called perfect, he had times where he faced challenges but alike how he talked to me as a older brother to a young man i expressed chin up and things would be okay and life is grand among that he have kids that love him and adore him every day to night which i will always respect him for how he love his family and enjoyed life.

The discussion of multiple topics that we talked about are endless, it could of been everything for the love of Music, The Love of Rock bands, Skateboarding, break dancing and most importantly family and kids being that we always enjoyed planning things among give ideas of how to surprise our kids and wife respectively with a good life which I was honored and privileged to meet the family of his Father Billy which a funny running gag with Justin pops was that I would see Billy during the day and Justin during the night and i never put two and two together that the two gentlemen where Father and Son which still surprises me at points, His Wife Cadance among his 4 kids which are a bundle of wonderful personalities.

When I found out Justin passed, Its a major deal to where on behalf and respect of the family that I still don't know how to process losing a good friend. But ultimately I'll rather cherish the Good Times and Great Life of a Great Man Justin was he could be a great example to most of despite challenges in life that you can still be a great influence to most and he will never be forgotten of how good of a person he was to me among many.

RIP Justin
