“ I never had the chance to meet Jean; however I felt like I knew her by all the stories my Aunt Sherry would tell me about her often. She holds a special place in my Aunts heart. I often sent things that I baked with my aunt to give to her and she always loved them. Prayers for the family and friends of Jean.

“ Jean was a special lady. Always had a story to tell. We would talk for hours and she always had me laughing. She was like a second Mom to me. Going to miss her dearly. When I would do her grocery shopping, she always had a Women World magazine on the list. After we put groceries away and ate, she would test my riddle abilities from the magazine. I rarely got the answer right even when she gave me hints. She told me I wasn't too good at riddles. And when I did get the right answer, she thought sure I had cheated and looked at the answer ahead of time. Even when she didn't feel good, she had a smile for me. I loved Jean very much. She will forever be in my heart.
