“ Ricky was a best friend who I was close to for many years leading up to his final day. He was best known for his sense of humor and kindness and was very easy to share conversations with on any subject. Music was his passion and drums were his instrument of choice that he played very well. We miss him very much and our grieving continues as we pray that God blesses him and his family. Ricky, we shall meet up again someday, but for now "I have some chickens to tend to".
